See the attached email from TU offering to provide EPA with a briefing on the proposed pebble mine in Alaska. I expect there may be a lot of interest in this issue here and I'm happy to host the briefing here in the AA's conference room. Can you let me know what days/times may work best for you and I'll work to schedule this as best I can to make it available to as many folks as possible.

Thanks,
Greg

Howdy - a little email snafu on that last one - my contact info is included on this one. Thanks again.

Gregory -

Thank you for your generous offer to help arrange a briefing for EPA staff on Bristol Bay and the Pebble Mine proposal in Alaska. Trout Unlimited and our partners are hosting a group of Alaskans who are coming to Washington for a week-long series of meetings with key decision makers in late October. The participants range from Rick Halford, former President of the Alaska state senate, to Lydia Olympic, a Yupik/Sugpiaq woman from the small village of Igiugig in Southwestern AK. We will also have two PhD's on hand who have both studied the Pebble proposal extensively from the perspective of water quality, geology, and wildlife resources. Everyone making the long trip to D.C. is eager to express their thoughts and concerns about the Pebble Mine, the largest proposed open-pit gold mine in North America planned in the headwaters of the largest sockeye salmon producing river on the planet.

Our meetings will occur on October 20, 21, and 22. I can schedule around a time that will work for the greatest number of staff at EPA at this point.

To view a list of the participants (we will only send a handful of these people over for the briefing):
